Andrew Sudholz is a Principal at Moores and is a member of the Property & Construction team. In 1999 Andrew was accredited as a Specialist in Property Law by the Law Institute of Victoria. For over 20 years Andrew has managed property and commercial transactions for Commercial and private clients.

A particular focus for Andrew is the Aged Care & Community Living sector where he regularly works with corporate and community clients in major asset acquisition and divestment projects. Andrew also works closely with education institutions, church denominations and a broad range of community groups. This experience includes managing projects where complex planning, contractual, leasing and financing considerations are addressed. Andrew has a strong understanding of the governance and workings of community organisations. Andrew is also committed to working closely with private clients who require assistance in a wide variety of legal matters and circumstances.

Andrew brings a strong relational and pragmatic approach to all that he does. Using his extensive experience and specialist knowledge in property law, Andrew brings a human element to property and commercial matters. Andrew's view is that behind every transaction are people. Andrew demonstrates that professionalism and competency is not compromised by being a lawyer with heart... and a lawyer with a sense of humour.
